ABOUT ME

Junior Front End Developer .

I'm a firm believer in the mobile-first, dynamic pages and easy-to-use approach. I define myself as a practical person in every field of my life, always trying to find ways to solve problems as fast and easy as possible. I'm always looking for improving my knowledge, logical thinking, coding skills, development tools and use my past experience to face the different challenges that may appear along the way.

I've read that great players win games, but great teams win championships. I like that point of view and that's why I try to adapt perfectly to teamwork, understanding that not only technical skills and academic education are important, but also personal backgrounds and different optics to face a problem are the key to success.

My favorite quote is "Never stop learning" as I believe that's the only way to constantly stay competitive and expand the range of my possibilities.
